

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN
TEXAS PERFORMING ARTS

2011-2012 YOUTH PERFORMANCES

11 a.m. to 12 noon

Bass Concert Hall at the University of Texas at Austin

AN DA UNION

Thursday, October 13

Joining us from Inner Mongolia, this 10-member group performs a traditional style of folk music sung and played by nomadic herders. Their goal is to stimulate interest in this forgotten culture while providing a unique and contemporary twist on traditional Mongolian music.

www.andaunion.com

- Historic costumes
- Traditional Mongolian instruments
- Throat singing

LUNA NEGRA DANCE THEATRE

Friday, November 18

Founded by a Cuban-born dancer/choreographer, this Chicago-based dance company brings a richly diverse performance from the Latino culture. The company prides itself in offering a contemporary twist on Latin dance with explosive energy and passion. www.lunanegra.org

- Latino choreographers
- Energy, power, and passion!
- Cultural identity
- Positive role models

DIAVOLO

Thursday, February 23

Comprised of 10 dancers, gymnasts, and actors based in Los Angeles, Diavolo presents an outrageous and surrealistic performance that leaves the audience in awe. Dancing, leaping, and flying, along with their creative use of props, are sure to entertain.

www.diavolo.org

- Creativity
- Teamwork
- Trust

Bring your group of up to 150 (grades 7-12) at no cost.
Standards-based educational materials and/or a pre-concert lesson visit to your class are available.

Free bus parking is provided.

This year, you may request money from our Bus Transportation Fund for your travel expenses.

Contact Brenda Simms, 512-471-2131, bsimms@texasperformingarts.org

www.texasperformingarts.org/engagement/foreducators